“ Carol loved her family and was crazy about her grandson. We shared pictures and stories about our grand babies. She could never get enough of him, always looking forward for the next trip that she would be able to spend time with him. I am grateful for our friendship; we shared so many, "don't say anything" and the many laughs we shared with TMI's. Please know that she was very proud of her children and loved her husband dearly,

She was beautiful inside and out. I will always remember Carol for her honesty, compassion and love; and I thank God for the memories we have of her and be assured, they will last a life time.

Prayers to her family and friends.

“ Carol and I started our chemo treatment together on the same day. We would always support each other when we saw each other during our weekly visits. Carol loved her family and was so very proud of each one. When she became a grandmother that was her ultimate!!

The last time I saw Carol was in September? I was wearing a special necklace someone had given me and she admired it and I gave it to her. She was such a strong women. I couldn't believe everything she accomplished going through everything she went through. I know she's at peace no more pain and suffering.
