“ To the family of Andy Wurlinger,

Ever since I was a young child growing up in Lexington, there was always a friendly face to be found downtown Lexington at Foley's Market. As I grew older and would return to town I would often stop in, not to purchase something, but to say hi and catch up with "Mundu" as we called him. He was a perfect symbol of the type of welcoming that we hope to all find upon entering into our small town of Lexington whether you were a local or just visiting for the weekend. Andy will be sincerely missed and I send my condolences.
