“ When the calendar marks the death of an extraordinarily decent and loving person like Casey Mach, my dad, there’s sadness - but there is also celebration - of our life together. You are the best Pop, thanks!

“ Casey was my dad, though in our family we called him "Pop" Passing at ninety-four and a half years of age, his goal was to live to one-hundred. I believe he packed at least one-hundred years of courage, hard work, love, care and kindness into the time he had. I won the lottery when he, my birth mom Betty, and after she passed my step mom Virginia were my parents. Simple as that.

Hey Pop, it's been three years since I saw you, December before Christmas at your home, the following January at assisted living before you passed. Miss the chance to see you again, but you are here with me in my heart. Every day my love for you and appreciation for how well you lived your life - and as I follow you still give me strength. So, so glad we were able to spend time together as we both aged.

The best part of our long lives is the 70 years we aged together Pop. I am forever grateful.

“ Casey would accompany Virginia to our First United Methodist Church services in Forester. I was the organist at that time. Casey loved music from the Catholic Church. He'd arrange to get me copies of his favorites to play at our services as well. I always got a kick out of playing them for him.
