“ I was saddened to hear of the passing of Dave on October 23rd. He and I were close friends through our mid-teens. We did briefly re-connect in the 80s but distance, life and as Thomas Wolfe wrote "you can't go home again" were insurmountable barriers. A good but funny memory: One afternoon Dave came over to my home after my mother finished preparing a big pot of chicken and dumplings. She told him he could have a bowlful if he was hungry. Dave took a bowl over to the pot, dipped it in and along with some chicken and dumplings, a chicken's foot was attached (poor immigrant families did not waste anything). The look on his face was priceless! Although, I do remember that he ate two bowlfuls of the chicken and dumplings, minus the chicken foot. Dave is surely with Jesus and our heavenly Father in heaven because a big hearted human being could be in no other place. Sincerely and with respect,

I was so fortunate to have met him. He had an amazing sense of humor and was great at delivering a joke. He will be missed by many.
