“ My condolences to Deb’s dear family. She was one special lady! I had the pleasure of working with Deb several years ago. We shared so many laughs together. On the days our boss would be off she would always say “When the cats away, the mice will play”. And we did. I remember one morning she came in to work late. Turns out she got all the way to work when her kids began cheering in the back seat because they thought they were going to work with mom.....she forgot to drop them at the sitter. My memories still make me smile. She was a wonderful friend and coworker. My heart goes out to the Hammond family. So sorry for your loss.
