She is remembered lovingly as a daughter, sister, wife, mother, grandmother, great grandmother and most importantly a child of God.

Her loving husband, Ken preceded her in his heavenly reward, as well as her parents, Margaret (Shay) and Herman Nolte, two sisters, Marie (Earnie Brandt) and Anne Coury and one brother, Frank (Pauline Rosa) and one stillborn child, Nicholas. Pat was the beating heart of our family, passionate in her faith, a prolific artist, known to sign her paintings, Sea Fever, musician and amazing life energy that flowed into all her relationships with those she loved.

Mom was contemplative at heart and a vowed secular Carmelite. Her spirituality was a steady and steadying undercurrent to her entire existence.

Pat loved the sea in all its forms, could find beauty in anything and her infectious laughter brightened every day. She will be dearly missed even as we rejoice that she has finally made it to her heavenly destination.

“ My deepest sympathy to the Melcher family, may the a Lord comfort you at this time of sorrow, Pat was one of the nicest ladies I ever met, Her sense of humor brought laughter and joy wherever she went. I enjoyed visiting her and praying with her in the last few years of her life, her faith in God and in the Eucharist was so strong it was an inspiration to me. I'll miss her friendly smile. May she Rest In Peace.

“ Aunt Pat was a gentle soul who always had a smile for me, a forget-me-not, and the time to share her artistic view of the world. Whether it was said with music, paint or sea glass, Aunt Pat always made me feel loved. We are keeping the whole family in our prayers and hope we are brought together again soon under happier circumstances.
