“ Ms Power was my 6th grade teacher at Fisher Elementary 1979-1980. The year I had her as my teacher was the one year that bullying didn't happen. I am still grateful to her for that to this day. A teaching game she offered up as an extra credit assignment was to find the "million dollar word". Each letter of the alphabet was assigned a number in order of a=1 to z=26. Then you spell a word and multiply the numbers representing the letters together. If you got within 50000 of 1 million you got the credit. To my knowledge nobody in the class found one while we were still in that grade. It really was a genius way to get kids to practice language and math skills all at once.

It popped into my head this week. Fixated on this I decided today to make a fresh effort to solve this. I found a solution. It's a now obsolete word from the 1913 dictionary. I am sure there are more. Factoring is the key. This provided me an evenings entertainment. Having found one I searched for her and found this notice.

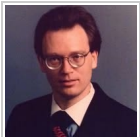

RIP Ms Power.

Mo as many of us knew Maureen was a treasure. She followed her own path as we knew her. Did not follow conventions set upon her at a young age. And that is what the women in our group were all doing. We lived and cherished Maureen.

“ "Miss Power" was my teacher in 5th grade (1970-71) at Jane Addams Elementary and again in 8th grade (1973-74) at Marshall Junior High. She was a wonderful teacher and we loved her.
