“ Sharon and I spent some time shopping together recently, looking for something that she desperately needed and no husband could find for any wife. I found her correct size up higher than she could reach from her wheelchair. She proudly wore it the next time I saw her and said that she was grateful that we had found them, yes she bought two plus in return she bought me some earrings that I had been looking for a while and every day I wear them I think of her. It was a blessed and fun day. And my sister-in-law became my SISTER!
