“ Well Stan, your brown road runner has left the building. I think it even protested being taken to it's final resting place. I remember seeing you in Peck, Croswell, and Yale visiting the fast food establishments and quenching your craving for "healthy food". Miss You Dear Neighbor.

“ With planting in full swing, it's hard not seeing Stan riding by on his four-wheeler. I'll never forget the time he stopped in and helped me pull a backwards calf. Or when he would offer help with my ladies. Once, he came home with me after my toddler and I took a high school neighbor home and two men were trying to force us off the road. I pulled into Stan's driveway, I still had cows to finish milking. He stayed until the rest of my family came home from a basketball game. Such a dear great man.
